

NATIONAL UNIVERSITY

March 12, 2020

Dear Students,

I am writing to follow up on the email you received today from Provost Singh regarding the transition of classroom-based courses to online modality, effective March 13, 2020 through the duration of the course.

Your program has been identified as one in which the entire course cannot be converted to an online format. As such this email outlines changes being made to your specific program.

Please note the following for your current courses in the month of March:

- All lecture components of the course will move to an online format
  - Your faculty will be following up with instructions shortly
- Clinical, Lab, and Practicum components of the course will continue to occur onsite
  - Changes to this plan may occur on a case-by-case basis and are at the discretion of your clinical or practicum site

For the time-being, no changes are planned to the format or modality of any future courses, starting with the April term. We will be in contact regarding information about future courses.

If you have further questions regarding these changes, please reach out to COPS@nu.edu.

Thank you,

Dr. John Cicero
Dean
College of Professional Studies
